THE SESSION

Stocks rose on Monday as chip and other AI-linked stocks rebounded from the prior week's sharp decline, with crude oil edging lower and signs of progress in the U.S.–China trade dispute. The S&P 500 rose 0.42% to 7,691 after its worst week since June, the Nasdaq rose 1.11% to 26,430 and the Dow slipped 0.07% to 51,966; the VIX fell 7.75% to 18.44. The 10-year Treasury yield closed at 5.15% against 5.09% on Friday, and the 30-year at 5.48% against 5.43%. Brent fell 0.44% to $109.38 a barrel after the U.S. waived certain Russia-related sanctions, while Middle East tensions kept prices elevated. The rebound recovered only part of last week's losses, and Lam Research and Meta Platforms report results on Wednesday. IBIT rose 0.33% and ETHA fell 0.73%.

The Dividend Strategy fell 0.14%, ahead of DVY's 1.17% decline by 1.03 points and behind SPY's 0.44% gain by 0.58 point, with seven of twenty-five holdings higher, seventeen lower and one unchanged. Broadcom rose 1.78% and added about 0.12 point, Clear Secure rose 2.85% and added about 0.10 point, and Lam Research rose 3.13%, adding about 0.10 point as semiconductor stocks recovered. Constellation Energy fell 3.01% and subtracted about 0.16 point, and NatWest fell 2.28%, subtracting about 0.08 point.

Relief rallies after sharp declines tend to be partial, and higher long-term yields may weigh on AI spending that depends on borrowing; owning cash-generative businesses across several parts of the economy tends to reduce reliance on any single outcome. Think Like an Owner.

The Growth Portfolio rose 0.35%, behind IUSG's 0.88% gain by 0.53 point, with fifteen of twenty-five holdings higher and ten lower. ServiceNow rose 2.39% to $145.36 and added about 0.20 point, Marvell rose 4.06% and added about 0.14 point, and Nvidia rose 1.38%, adding about 0.09 point. Robinhood fell 2.38% and subtracted about 0.12 point, Vistra fell 1.53% and subtracted about 0.10 point, and SoFi fell 1.72%, subtracting about 0.07 point. On the year, the Dividend Strategy stands at +19.54% against DVY's +14.13%, a +5.41-point spread, with SPY at +13.30%; the Growth Portfolio stands at +17.19% against IUSG's +14.16%, a +3.03-point spread.
